Assistive Technology for Visually Impaired

SSE Provide technical assistance to the students who are visually impaired, higher education institutions have to provide essential resources for the students learning process. So the college has provided screen readers in all the computers for the benefit of the visually impaired. A screen reader is the essential software for the blind or visual impaired person. Simple put a screen reader transmits whatever text is displayed on the screen in a form that a visually impaired user can process.

A basic screen reader may not help blind users navigate the computer; those with additional features can give the people with visual impairment with much more independence. The software adopted in the college is inbuilt in the Microsoft Windows 10 Narrator in which Braille; students can download and use the software which is designed for the visually impaired and the blind. This feature is available in all computers in the college which is accessible to the students Braille is the form of Language for the blind people in which the characters are represented by patterns of raised dots that are felt with fingertips. This software is invented by Louis Braille, it is traditionally written in embossed paper. Braille literacy is a social justice issue, crucial to literacy, education and employment among the blind and visually impaired.
